HEROIC WORK OF TRAINMEN AND

SAVED MANY FROM BURNING TO DEATH.

A MISTAKE IN TRAIN ORDERS

Caused Grand Trunk Pacific Express
to Run Into a Freight Telescoping the Smoker.

LONDON, ONT. DEC. 27.—(Bulletin)
—THE LATEST REPORT FROM THE GRAND TRUNK WRECK THIS AFTERNOON SAYS THAT 38 BOD-IES HAVE ALREADY BEEN TAKEN OUT.

Of the dead 14 have been identified.
All but one are from Canada or Michigan. The rest remain unidentified.

London, Ont., Dec. 27.—West bound Pacific express on the Grand Trunk crashed into a freight near Wanstead at 10 o'clock last night, owing to a mistake in orders. Two baggage cars were telescoped into a smoker and all in the smoker were killed. Details are meagre today, owing to the storm, but it is reported that 24 people were killed and 18 injured. Responsibility for the wreck as near as could be ascertained at the scene appears to rest with the operator at Watford, who, it is said, failed to give the conductor of the express meeting orders for Wanstead.

The smoker where most of the fatalities occurred, had the side knocked out and the roof fell in, imprisoning the passengers. The wreck then caught fire, but a number of passengers were saved from burning by heroic work of the trainmen and the uninjured passengers. The sufferings of the wounded were increased by the blinding snow and zero temperature. The doctors now say that the death list will reach 30. Medical aid is being sent to the sufferers as fast as possible.

The wreck shortly after the collision caught fire and but for heroic efforts of a brigade of passengers organized and led by an old man who was himself a passenger on the train, the disaster might have been more appalling. By heroic efforts this brigade put out the fire by throwing snow on the flames with their hats and hands. They then turned their efforts to getting out the wounded who had their suffering increased by a blinding snow storm, and the thermometer near zero.

Miss Cuthbertson of Port Huron, Mich., was imprisoned under the wreck for two hours, but was not seriously injured.

The express was proceeding west at its usual high rate of speed. The freight was under slow headway and was to have taken the switch at Wanstead to allow the passenger train to pass. Apparently neither engineer saw the danger ahead in time to avoid the accident for the two engines came together near the switch with a frightful crash, overturning into the ditch.

The wreck was complete and it is thought that hardly a single passenger in the smoker escaped injury. Word was sent to this city and doctors were soon on the scene. The work of removing the dead and injured was begun immediately. Five or six bodies were discovered in a short time. Fully a score of seriously injured persons were removed, most of them passengers in the smoker. The dead and injured are arriving in London today and the work of identifying the dead, and caring for the sufferers is being hurried as fast as possible. A billion from the scene of the wreck puts the number of dead at 38 this afternoon.

BANK

Blown Open In Missouri
and Robbed of $15,000.

Union, Mo., Dec. 17.—The Bank of Union was robbed this morning by a band of experts estimated to number from three to seven men. They forced an entrance through the front door, and with nitroglycerine blew open the vault and safe. There were four explosions and the bank furniture and glass front are completely wrecked.

About $15,000 was secured by the robbers. During the progress of the robbery the bandits kept up a fusilade from revolvers to terrorize the residents, several of whom witnessed the robbery. After completing their work the robbers went to the east edge of town where they had horses, and rode away.

MILLIONS WILL BE PAID IN DIVIDENDS.

New York, Dec. 27.—The New York banks will pay out in dividends and interest beginning next week the vast sum of $132,239,352. Of this amount $73,566,593 is for interest on railroad, industrial, traction, government and New York City bonds and the remainder is for dividends on stocks of various kinds.

Dozen Dead.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 27.—There's no truth that 30 persons were killed in the Christmas wreck at Trinidad.
Twelve bodies have been recovered. A number of coal miners believed to have been stealing a ride, are reported killed, but this is not confirmed and is denied by the railroad officials.

THE POWERS ACCEPT

Conditional Agreement by England and Germany to Permit the Venezuelan Dispute to Go to the Hague for Arbitration Is Far From a Settlement of the Trouble.

London, Dec. 27.—England formally accepted President Roosevelt's proposal to refer the Venezuelan affair to the Hague for arbitration this afternoon.

London, Dec. 27.—A dispatch to the Central News from Berlin says that Germany has agreed to accept the Hague tribunal as arbitrator in the Venezuelan difficulty.

Berlin, Dec. 27.—The German press expresses general satisfaction at the prospect of arbitration of the Venezuelan affair and is curious to see how The Hague tribunal will avoid any consideration of the Monroe doctrine.

Berlin, Dec. 27.—United States Ambassador Charlemagne Tower has communicated to the foreign office President Roosevelt's refusal to act as arbitrator of Venezuelan affairs. The refusal is considered a snub to Anglo-German diplomacy.

Washington, Dec. 27.—A conditional agreement by the Powers to permit the Venezuela dispute to go to the Hague for arbitration is far from a settlement of the trouble, according to official views here. The State department following the custom of diplomaric courtesy, refuses to make known any of the conditions imposed by Great Britain and Germany precedent to submitting their case to the tribunal. There seems to be not only a lack of harmony between the allies but the conditions themselves seem likely to prove impossible from the Venezuelan standpoint. Germany will insist on a preliminary cash payment.

One interesting feature of the situation is the gradual growth of the United States from an attitude of absolute neutrality and almost indifference into that of an active intercessor in behalf of Venezuela. When Minister Bowen first informed the State Department that Castro had asked him to propose arbitration, it was stated most positively by Secretary Hay that consent had been given only upon condition that Mr. Bowen should be considered as a mere messenger, that this country could not and would not appear to interfere even in the most indirect manner.

Nevertheless the message was forwarded with an expression of hope that the powers would consent. From that point, the role of the United States has developed with wonderful activity and rapidity to its present importance. Only by the exercise of the greatest diplomatic skill has any assumption of responsibility been avoided. The disappointment expressed generally in London, indicates clearly that the request that President Roosevelt act as arbitrator was intended to draw the United States into the controversy further than it cared to go or should permit itself to go.

Should the Venezuelan affair really be referred to The Hague some idea of the length of time that will be required for a settlement by that tribunal is indicated by its recent arbitration of the Pius fund claim of the United States against Mexico.

The agreement to submit that case
to The Hague was reached in April, 1902; the members of the court were selected September 3; the case was opened September 23, and the decision was rendered October 15. The complicated character of the preliminaries that must be settled before the members of the court are selected and the multiplicity of interests involved in the Venezuelan affair, make it unlikely that a decision would be reached by The Hague much short of a year from this time. The judges would probably be five in number, two selected by each side and the fifth by the first four. All of the judges must be members of the permanent court of arbitration, which is composed of four delegates from each country signatory to The Hague convention.

Washington, Dec. 27.—At the state department it is positively denied today that this country is participating in formulating a preliminary protocol providing for arbitration between the Powers and Venezuela. It is said that President Roosevelt in declining to act as arbitrator, declined in spirit as well as in letter. To assist in arranging the preliminaries would be inconsistent.
Whether the blockade will continue during the negotiations is yet to be learned here.

tims of the Boer war.

TRUST

Question More Important
Than Any Other
Today.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Senator Morgan of Alabama, believes that the question of curbing the power of the trusts is of surpassing importance to the American people. "My belief is also," said he in an interview today,
"that out of the demand for a solution of this question will be wrought a political revolution. The power of the American people is greater than that of corporate wealth. It is slow in arousing but once aroused, no wrong can stand before it."

Roller Sent Home.

Washington, Dec. 27.—The Secretary of the Navy has directed Rear Admiral R. D. Evans, commanding the Asiatic station to send Commander John E.
Roller, U. S. N., to his home in this country. Complaint was made that Commander Roller be recalled inasmuch as an incident well known to be in violation of the naval regulations had attracted a great deal of comment.

Gas Turned Off.

Norwalk, O., Dec. 27.—A. G. Lathamer of Kimball, O., was found dead in a room at the St. Charles Hotel yesterday. He retired about midnight, and it is thought left his light burning. Early in the morning the machinery at the gas plant broke down and no gas was furnished for some time. It is thought when the gas was again turned on Lathamer's room was filled with gas and he was asphyxiated.

CHOICE

Of Life In Convent
Or Asylum

But the Princess Chose Flight.

Stormy Scene With the Princess' Brother

WHO PROCEEDED TO WHIP THE FRENCHMAN.

NOT AT ALL SORRY FOR THEIR CONDUCT

BROTHER UPBRAIDS LEOPOLD

For Disgracing the Imperial Family,
But Archduke Said Court Life
Was Unbearable.

Geneva, Dec. 27.—Princess Louise of Saxony, who eloped with Andre Giron,
a French tutor, had a stormy scene
with her younger brother, Archduke Joseph, who arrived here and tried to persuade her to return to her father's palace. The Princess insisted that Mr.
Giron be present at the interview.
Archduke Joseph consented but as soon as the Frenchman appeared Joseph jumped for his throat and proceeded to thoroughly chastise him. The Princess, in hysterics, threw herself between the two and protected her lover's body from the violence of her brother.

Archduke Joseph subsequently saw his elder brother Archduke Leopold Ferdinand. There was a stormy interview between the brothers, the younger upbraiding Leopold for disgracing the imperial family. Archduke Leopold retorted that life fettered by court etiquette was the most miserable conceivable. An archduke he said, he felt like a slave, but as plain Leopold Wolfing, he felt like a free man, supremely happy. Leopold has written to a friend in Salzburg that neither he nor the Princess regretted their conduct.

The latest version of the beginning of the affair states that when the intimacy of M. Giron was discovered the Princess was given the choice of a life time in the convent or asylum. She chose flight. Further revelations, it is said, show that the Saxon court made her a continuous martyr to bigotry and that she was often imprisoned anywhere from a month to six weeks in her own apartment for harmless and unconventional acts. Despair drove her to wrongdoing.

BIG KITE

Will Carry a Man and Engine Invented by Alexander Bell—He Talks About Experiments.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, who has just returned to Washington from his summer home in Cape Breton Island, has made the following statement:

"The newspapers have been premature in announcing that I have been at work upon a flying machine. I have not any flying machine at all, and have not been trying to make one. I am, of course, interested in the problem, and have come to the conclusion that a properly constructed flying machine should be capable of being flown as a kite if anchored to the ground, and that conversely a properly constructed kite should be capable of use as a flying machine, provided with suitable means of propulsion.
My experiments have had as their object the building of a kite of solid construction capable of carrying up in a moderate breeze a weight equivalent to that of a man and engine, and so formed that it could be suitable for use as the body of a flying machine, and with supporting surfaces so arranged that when the kite is cut loose
it will come down gently and steadily and land uninjured. I have successfully accomplished this, but do not care at the present time to make public the details of construction."

This cut shows the recently elected Ohio Congressmen, each placed on the map numbered according to the district he represents. They are:

It appears from an interview with Senator Burrows that the withdrawal of opposition to Cuban reciprocity by the Michigan senators has been prematurely announced, and is dependent upon the action of the beet sugar men's convention, which meets January 8. Mr. Burrows thinks that if the beet sugar men conclude that 1-1-2 cents a pound protection is not enough the treaty is doomed, for he naively asks, "Would any Republican believer in protection want the theory thus impaired?" There is one thing about securing the reciprocal benefits of this treaty for the United States: Cuba no longer needs the cut in duty, but this country could enjoy some of the reductions in turn granted by Cuba.

Mabini, the decrepit patriot of the Filipino cause, is to be released from prison in Guam, without the condition refused by him of subscribing an oath of allegiance. He was imprisoned until a declaration of the termination of hostilities, and this was done by the President on the Fourth of July last. Why an old man, paralyzed, should be kept in prison for six months after the power of his commitment had expired is one of those things possible only under the new American theory of being a world power.

MISS DASKAM ON HER SEX.

Magazine readers always turn to an article by Miss Josephine Daskam with the certainty that something is to be enjoyed, some story scintillating with wit and full of common sense. At the dinner of the Pilgrim Mothers last week, when Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake presided, Miss Daskam shocked the assemblage of strenuous women by such views as these:

If you cannot in this generation get your vote, you always can get your voter. Women have always influenced man, and I don't see but what that's just as good. I think there is a great deal of unnecessary twaddle these days about the increasing strenuousness of the young girl. I don't think she has changed so much. She has no more mind. She may use her mind a little differently, but it's the same old mind, the same energy that she uses. There are two things which women must always have had since the creation to be successful, and those two things are the same in the far-off islands of the Pacific and in the high school in Massachusetts. A woman to be successful must be good and she must be charming. There may be something interesting in the bad woman, but she can't perpetuate nations, and after all that was the main purpose of our creation. I think if a woman is good and nothing else, she will be as dull as anything the world ever made, but if she can be good and charming her heritage and posterity can ask absolutely nothing better.

Such a speech as that delivered in the New Hampshire constitutional convention might have prevented the inscription of the clause giving suffrage to women. It retains so much that will ever constitute the lovable qualities of woman: it rejects so valiantly the new spheres of influence proposed like some European empress extending its dynasty over helpless China. Miss Daskam did not spurn the making of laws that would protect women in her domestic or property rights, but the departure from the old conceptions, the conserved notions that win man, she brilliantly opposed. The debate precipitated among her own sex will be diverting.

HANNA AND DICK

Becoming Rival Leaders of Factions--Dick Wants Republican Nomination for Governor and is Organizing Forces With Hanna's Opposition.

Columbus, Dec. 27.—Indications are rapidly multiplying to show that a most peculiar and unexpected combination is imminent in this State, which will have for its object the unseating of Mr. Hanna as the supreme boss of the party and a division of his present functions as a boss among a number of minor leaders who heretofore have not been on the best of terms with one another. The much-titled Congressman C. W. F. Dick, strange as it may appear, is the chief instrument in this odd coalition of forces against Hanna. General Dick's candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor, which will continue to gather strength no matter what disposition is pretended to be made of it by the dictum of the junior senator, has let the cat out of the bag. Dick at first put himself into the field to feel the pulse of the party. He knew that he could rely upon numerous influential friends, even as against Hanna. He knew also the power of his own machine. For he it known that during the past few years the Akron statesman has secretly built up a very efficient political organization in nearly all the counties of Ohio, entirely independent of Hanna. This machine belongs to Dick—not to the Republican party—and is identified with Hanna only as long as his objects in politics are endorsed by Dick. The latter has taken care that with any parting of the ways between himself and the Senator the Dick machine should stay with its maker.

To the surprise of the Republican chairman, however, his candidacy has suddenly brought to his support a very influential part of the element in the Republican party which has heretofore been bitterly opposed to both him and Hanna. The anti-Hanna Republicans see in the present situation an opportunity to dissolve the partnership that so long existed between these two and to throw the Senator into political bankruptcy. That Dick is not above listening to their blandishments is evident from their attitude and his. The Akron man itches for the nomination; he sees that the passing of the McKinley regime has deprived Hanna of almost all his former power; he believes that Roosevelt will be nominated and that if elected his second administration will practically eliminate Hanna as a factor in national politics, if, indeed, he is then one of importance in state politics; he knows that Hanna will have his hands full attending to his own re-election to the Senate and his continuation of his grip on the national committee; and, finally, he understands that the Senator is increasing in years and infirmities and under the most favorable circumstances cannot much longer retain his hold as a boss in Ohio or anywhere else. All of these considerations remind the astute Republican chairman that it is high time for him to "look out for Number One."

If anti-Hanna Republicans want to give him their support, why should he decline? When did a good politician ever decline any kind of support? How long must an ambitious young man tie himself to the waning fortunes of a rapidly falling old man? These are questions that suggest themselves to General Dick, to his friends and to some of his former opponents, with seductive insidiousness. If they are answered in the way expected by those who ask them with the deepest interest, the result will be the downfall of Hanna and a general division of the spoils of his leadership, with Dick as the recipient of the nominal if not the real favors.

A very significant fact to be considered in connection with this aspect of the Republican situation is the declaration of State Mine Inspector Biddison in favor of Dick as against Byron T. Herrick, or any other candidate. Mr. Biddison says that Athens county will send a Dick delegation to the Republican state convention, notwithstanding General Groves' opinion is working for Albert Douglas in that section. He says furthermore that Groves and Hanna have been locked out in Hocking county and that substantially the whole district is safe for Dick. Considering the course of these declarations they are of vital importance just now. Mr. Biddison is a quiet and unassuming individual, but a political manipulator of exceptional ability. In recent years as much political "devilment" has proceeded from his unpretentious office in the State House as from any quarter in Ohio, not excepting General Dick's own apartments at Republican state headquarters, Senator Hanna's private office in Cleveland, or John R. Malloy's gold-lined sanctum in the heart of the oil inspector's princely domain. Mr. Biddison is first of all a Kurtz man, and this is what gives the queerest look to his present activity in favor of Dick. It was he who pulled the wires indicated by Kurtz that forced Hanna to a compromise in the fight for the control of the organization of the Seventy-fifth General Assembly one year ago and came very near putting the Hanna people to complete rout. Under Kurtz's direction Biddison was the mainstay of the forces that put forward the candidacy of Representative Aaron Price of Athens for speaker of the House against Judge Thomas and all the other Hanna candidates; and it was he, still under Kurtz's direction, who signed the articles of agreement resulting in the truce that made McKinnon speaker and divided other spoils between the two Republican factions. Although the prizes fought for were comparatively small, that was one of the bitterest conflicts ever waged between the Hanna and anti-Hanna forces; and from the beginning to the end State Mine Inspector Biddison kept his place in the front rank of the anti-Hanna crowd.

Now his declaration for Dick as against Herrick cannot be taken otherwise than as an indication that he represents in part at least the attitude of his old friend and erstwhile leader, Charles L. Kurtz, who thus once more figures beneath the surface of Republican events. It is well known that Kurtz has never had any love for Dick; yet Biddison is not the only one of his lieutenants booming the Akron man for governor. It must be evident to the most indifferent observer of Ohio politics—and it certainly is so to the Hanna people—that the combination of forces implied by the peculiar association of those who are now supporting Dick is the most dangerous menace to Mark Hanna's supremacy that he has encountered since William McKinley was nominated for President the first time.

Taking the other side of the situation—the Hanna side—it is interesting and may be profitable to observe the slyish attitude which the ultra Hanna organs and beneficiaries of the Cleveland boss still maintain toward him. For instance, the following is what the Ohio State Journal has to say:

"The governorship so far as the Republicans are concerned is to be settled at a conference scheduled for an uncertain date, with Cleveland as its location. This conference is to be attended by Mr. Hanna, Colonel Herrick, and General Dick, who are to make a whole slate while they are at it, and save the convention much work. Of course, if matters come out all right the party convention next summer will be a mere ratification meeting. The alarming discovery has been made that Mr. Hanna is inimical to General Dick's candidacy and will order that gentleman back to the stable at an early day."

If the humiliation of a great party can go on any farther than this, the most erratic dreams cannot imagine the depths it may reach. Surely no comment could do the subject justice.

AMUSEMENTS.

"A Royal Slave," is the greatest and best high class sensational play that has been seen in this country in the last three decades. It is the most original play on the boards today. Original in location, in "motto" in plot and story. In characters, in costumes, in scenic effects, in mechanical surprises, in dramatic situations, in pictures and climaxes; it is the only strongly sensational play that does not descend to "blood and thunder" methods, but has all the literary merit and charm of the best romantic plays; coupled with the thrilling dramatic power of a great melodrama, and the brilliancy and sparkle of the brightest comedies; and therefore it pleases the most critical and intelligent at the same time that it thrills a gallery to the highest point of enthusiasm. It is never tiresome and never allows the interest to once flag, but holds an audience entranced to the last. It touches always the chords of human sympathy and human justice. It has nothing old or hackneyed about it and nothing that enables an auditor to anticipate what is coming next. Auditorium, tonight.

THE CLIMBERS TUESDAY.

"The Climbers," which will be presented here by Amelia Bingham, America's only actress-manager, will be at the Auditorium Tuesday night, Dec. 30, direct from its run of 200 nights at the Bijou theatre, New York, is a new four act play of contemporary New York by Clyde Fitch. The play has to do with familiar types of "City Climbers," who are presented successively in a drawing room directly after the return of a family from the funeral of the head of the house; at a Christmas eve dinner; at a well known resort on the Bronx; and again in a city home. One of the chief figures is a young married man whose embezzling propensities keep him, his family and some of his friends on the anxious seat until he takes an overdose of a narcotic at the close of the play. The sympathetic character of the play is that of his wife who despite the temptation to lower her ideals contrives to lead a high minded, noble life. Miss Bingham has mounted the play with exceptional taste, the dinner scene and the bit of "The Bronx" with its snow falling being among the best of recent stage pictures. "The Climbers" will be presented here by a company of distinguished players and with the same scenic and material appointments as employed in the original production.

MISS MONIE BOWEY,

No. 38 Perry Street, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

A couple of winters ago I slipped on a frozen sidewalk and fell flat on my back. On being examined I found that I had sustained internal injuries which laid me up for more than two months. After that I noticed that I had pains in the back and groin which I never had before. I doctored and doctored for several months but as the pains increased instead of growing better I decided that I was not having the right treatment. Reading in the papers of the wonderful cures performed by Wine of Cardui I wrote to one of the parties and received a very satisfactory reply and I immediately sent for some. In a very short time I felt generally better and after seven weeks faithful use I was once more well and strong. I have never had a sick hour since and I daily bless your splendid medicine.

Miss Monie Bowey.

Wine of Cardui makes women more womanly by curing their weakness and making them stronger. Wine of Cardui cured Miss Bowey. As a medicine for all women in every trying period of their lives can you think of a better medicine for yourself, your sister, your daughter or your mother? Can you think of a more acceptable present to give your friend than a bottle of this medicine which will bring her health and happiness? You are suffering? Your duty is to rid yourself of this pain. If your daughter, mother, sister or friend is sick and in need of relief, your duty is equally great to them. Many women, now well, owe their lives to friends who brought them Wine of Cardui.

WINE OF CARDUI is one medicine that should always be kept on hand in every home for immediate use when female weakness first makes its appearance. Miss Bowey's painful and dangerous accident would not have resulted so seriously had she taken Wine of Cardui promptly.

Wine of Cardui is adapted to women at any age in any walk of life. For the working woman it gives her strength for her tasks and better treatment than a doctor for very small cost. Your druggist will sell you a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. Secure the medicine today. Take it in the privacy of your home. Relief will come to you as surely as you take it.

WINE of CARDUI

A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

LODGE NEWS

Home Guards.

Newark Home, No. 34 met in regular session on Thursday evening, December 25. There was a remarkably good attendance, considering that it was Christmas night. Considerable business of importance was transacted.

The Old Time Cotillion party given by the Guards at Brennan's Hall on Saturday evening was a grand success, socially. The hall was filled with a good class of people, and everything passed off according to program, nothing occurring to mar the enjoyment of anyone. The most pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the "cake walk," which resulted in the cake being awarded to two little girls, Florence Hamlin and Ruth Connell. Florence was dressed as a boy, and acted the part to perfection. She was dressed in a red waist, orange colored pants with red stripes down the seams, white stockings and white slippers. Ruth was dressed in a pink lawn dress, trimmed with lace and baby ribbon, white stockings and white slippers. Their pretty faces and graceful movements took the crowd by storm. They responded to the encore by singing a song entitled, "We're Two Little Irish Girls." Master Carl Orr also sang several songs, which were well received. Mr. V. V. Overturf held the lucky number that drew the gold watch. He was not present, but the watch was delivered to him on Monday morning.

At the next meeting of Newark Home, to be held on January 1st, there will be a large class of candidates for initiation. The installation of officers will also take place, and it is hoped that there will be a good attendance.

Knights of Pythias.

The Knight rank was conferred on Virgil Baker last Thursday evening at White Cross Lodge. The ceremonies were enjoyed by a large number of the brethren. At the close of lodge, a luncheon was served and a social season indulged in by those present. Rank work each Thursday evening—Johannston Independent.

Odd Fellows.

The Trustees of the Odd Fellows Temple of Cincinnati are in receipt of several propositions bearing on their plan to relieve the Temple building of the present debt. These contain substantial offers of aid in various ways and under conditions. The Trustees expect to be able to accept one or more of the offers, and they are now under consideration. There is gratification over the interest displayed in the fortune of the temple and the efforts being made to save it to the I. O. O. F. Lodges of Cincinnati, who sacrificed so much to erect and maintain it. All that careful management can do to save the building is now being done, and the outlook is encouraging. The present standing debt of the temple is $100,000.

The various lodges of Springfield have concluded to follow the annual custom and mail envelopes to all members of the Order in Ohio. These envelopes are to be returned with contributions toward the fund which

SPRINGER INDICTED

Millionaire Who Married a Newark Girl Is Accused of Perjury at Chicago--Defendant Says it is Case of Blackmail.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Warren Springer, a multimillionaire, who received a Christmas present in the shape of an indictment charging perjury has given himself up and was released on $1,500 bail. He is accused of having sworn falsely in the trial of a suit for the recovery of $51,000, brought against him by three contractors, who claim they lost that sum through Springer's alleged failure to carry out his contract. Springer claims it is a case of blackmail.

State's Attorney Deneen said that he knew nothing regarding the charges, and did not know of the indictment until he read of it. He said that he would not attempt to prepare the state's case until after the holidays. This indictment will be of considerable interest to Newark people as his wife was formerly Miss Margaret Maginness, daughter of Mr. John Maginness, who for years was a Newark dry goods man. Mrs. Springer in the past few years has taken quite a prominent part in various societies and has been state president of the D. A. R.

SWISHERS

Are to Make Their Chillicothe Branch Cigar Factory One of the Biggest in the State.

(Chillicothe News-Advertiser.)

Mr. John Swisher, the head of the Swisher Bros., who are establishing a cigar factory in Chillicothe, stated while here yesterday that the conditions here are so favorable in all factors that in the course of a year or more he will have here the largest cigar factory in Ohio. This is exactly in accordance with the view expressed by the News-Advertiser which it communicated to Mr. Swisher before he even contemplated Chillicothe as a location; we saw the possibilities of this city for such a factory, and called Mr. Swisher's attention to them. He has found the conditions here better than he expected and it is with pleasure that we make this note. A large cigar factory means the distribution of money received as wages among the merchants. Chillicothe is bound to be a great manufacturing center. That is as sure as it is already in a great agricultural region.

In Welsh Hills.

The Welsh Hills Baptist Sunday school gave its annual church entertainment on Christmas night. There was an interesting program of literary and musical exercises, and a nice treat was given to the children. Mr. Charles Hoover is the efficient superintendent of the Sunday school, and gave an interesting talk, as also did Rev. Bunyon Spencer, the pastor of the church. The entire occasion was very enjoyable and will long be remembered.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It In Newark.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed, for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Newark residents expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Dean's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

Mr. John Nelson of 41 Thirteenth street says: "When I enlisted in the 27th Ohio C. Volunteers under Captain Nichols, I passed medical inspection creditably. When I was discharged my back bothered me and at intervals ever after I had attacks of kidney complaint. My back was weak and painful across the loins and I was also greatly distressed by urinary weakness. I took every kind of medicine but it availed me nothing. I tried Dean's Kidney Pills, getting a box at Clayton's drug store. After I used them my back ceased to ache and felt stronger. Besides mending my back they also corrected the urinary weakness. To a man 51 years of age this is a great comfort."

School Entertainment.

A very interesting holiday event was given Christmas evening by the pupils of Miss Flo Stewart's school in Opossum Hollow. The entertainment consisted of music, recitations, dialogues, etc., with the rendition of a very amusing little farce. The entertainment was first class, and was very creditable to both teachers and pupils. At the close of the entertainment a unanimous vote of the audience requesting that the entertainment be repeated in the near future was taken.

Christmas Party.

A Christmas party was given to the Mothers last evening at Trinity church Parish House. There were about forty present and a number of invited guests. After a short religious service by the Rector, Rev. G. W. Van Fossen, the hymn of the Guild was sung. Then came the distribution of the Christmas gifts which caused much merriment. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served, after which different games were indulged in. The Guild is much indebted to Mr. Grant Sudberry and Mr. Pratt for some delightful music on the mandolin and guitar. The Guild will meet as usual next Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the Parish House.

A Gentle Hint. A certain butcher is renowned among his contemporaries for the quaintness and originality of some of his remarks.

On a road leading to a neighboring parish he one day met a gentleman who at the time owed him for some meat. After a salutation the gentleman remarked:

"That's a fine fat dog you have, Alexander."

"See weel he may, sir," was the reply. "for he has an easy conscience and is out o' debt, and that's mair than you or I can say."

The hint was taken, and the butcher got his money next day.—London Answers.

MRS. CATHERWOOD IS DEAD

Well Known Author Whose Former Home Was in Hebron and Who Attended School at Granville Passed Away at Chicago.

A dispatch from Chicago announces that Mary Hartwell Catherwood, the well known author of "The Crack of Doom," "Lazarre," "Old Caravan Days," and other favorite books died at her home in Chicago at 5:30 o'clock Friday night.

Mrs. Catherwood spent her girlhood at Hebron, this county, and between the years 1875 and 1880 attended school at the Granville Female College, being a classmate of Mrs. Fred S. Wright's sister, and a close friend of Mrs. F. S. Wright.

At her bedside at the time of her condition seemed to improve. A few days later, however, when she appeared to be on the road to recovery, cancer of the stomach developed, and three weeks ago she was told by her attending physicians, after a consultation, that she had but a few weeks to live.

The announcement of Mrs. Catherwood's death will be sad news to many residents of Newark, Granville and Hebron, who knew Mrs. Catherwood when she was a young woman, Mary Hartwell, attending college at Granville. She attended Granville Female death was her husband, James Steele Catherwood, her daughter Hazel, her nephew Robert, her niece, Naomi Catherwood, and her life long friend, Mrs. Robert H. Parkinson.

Mrs. Catherwood had known for three weeks that her illness would have a fatal termination. She expressed regret at leaving her family and friends and her work unfinished, but she met the end with fortitude and remained conscious up to a few hours of her death.

The noted author was taken ill October 15. Her ailment was pronounced inflammatory rheumatism and stricture of the stomach.

The latter part of October she underwent an operation. Dr. John B. Murphy, who performed the operation, was at first hopeful of her ultimate recovery, as Mrs. Catherwood rallied and college for a number of years, when it was at the zenith of its success, under the late Dr. William P. Kerr. She graduated from that excellent institution in 1868, with high honors, and the year afterwards she took a post graduate course in German and literary studies. Miss Hartwell gave promise of that high literary eminence to which she afterwards attained. Her first novel, published some years ago, was styled "Rocky Fork," and the scenes and characters were taken from the eastern part of Licking county. Later she produced some very excellent works, the most notable, perhaps, in her recent book "Lazarre." Her untimely death, just in the prime of life, and in the midst of a career of great brilliance and success, will be sincerely mourned, not only by large circle of personal friends, but also by all who are acquainted with her literary works.

Of Mrs. Nancy C. Miller at the Home of Her Daughter, Mrs. J. B. Jones.

Mrs. Nancy Chenoweth Miller, aged 64 years, died at 11:25 Friday night, after an eight weeks' severe illness, although she had been practically invalid for a period of four years, with consumption, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Jones, 143 North Fourth street.

Mrs. Miller was the widow of A. Cromwell Miller, and was born in Berkeley county, West Virginia, where most of her life was spent. Her husband died about 25 years ago, and for the past ten years she has been making her home with Mrs. Jones, her only child.

There will be no funeral services in Newark; the remains being taken to Martinsburg, W. Va., tonight, and the funeral will take place from the Christ Reform church of which she was a member, at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

Hon. J. B. Jones, who has been very ill for several weeks is considerably improved, but will not be able to accompany his wife on her sad journey.

MANY THOUSANDS CURED OF CATARRH.

Remarkable Cures Made by Pe-ru-na North and South.

MISS BLANCHE MYERS

Miss Blanche Myers, 3120 Penn street, Kansas City, Mo., a society belle of that city writes:

"During each of the past four seasons I have caught a severe cold when suddenly chilled after an evening party, and a most unpleasant catarrh lasting for several weeks would be the result."

"Last winter my brother advised me to try Peruna, as one of his club friends had been cured of a bad case of catarrh by using it. He procured me a bottle and I was much pleased to find that one bottle cured me. I shall not dread colds any more so long as I can procure Peruna."—MISS BLANCHE MYERS.

Peruna cures catarrh wherever located, with the same surety and promptness. There are no substitutes for Peruna.

Miss Hattie Becker, secretary of the Goethe Club, of Racine, Wis., writes:

"A short time ago I got my feet wet, and a cold settled on my lungs which nothing seemed to remove. Our family physician tried extracts, powders and pills, but I kept getting worse until my brother advised me to try Peruna and purchased a bottle for me."

"It acted like a charm and in a week I was like my old self once more; in fact I felt stronger and had a better appetite than I have ever had before. Peruna will have a welcome place in our medicine chest, as the whole family believes in it."—Hattie Becker.

Peruna is an internal remedy—wherever located.

scientific remedy for catarrh. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures last. Peruna gives strength by stopping waste.

By giving the mucus it enriches the blood.

By cleansing the mucous membranes it preserves the vital forces.

A constant drain of mucus from the system is known as systemic catarrh. This may occur from any organ of the body.

Peruna stops this waste by curing the catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, no matter which organ may be affected. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

ashes to mark the pathway, but the leaping, irregular flame subsided into a steady glow, which illumines the world today, and as time goes on it becomes more brilliant, more effective. The crusade movement did not die, or even sleep. It took on newer and higher form. "Men must work and women must weep, was the ancient decree but the "Whirlwind of the Lord" changed all that. The great eternal push which is the cause of all growth, worked through the saloon, as it often works through other evils to awaken Christian women to a greater knowledge of their own responsibility and powers, and force them to step from the weeping to the working stage. The same ceaseless energy directed their efforts through the saloon to the power behind the saloon, and today instead of weeping and wailing while men are working, women are still persistently crusading. They do not these days march and sing in the streets, or kneel upon the floor of the saloon, but are an organized army. They are praying and working and fighting in forty different departments for the protection of their homes, even to the storming of the strongholds of government itself, and this work is all of God. Ye cannot overthrow it.

Next Tuesday the devotional exercises will be led by Mrs. Kistlingberry, and a paper, "A Retrospect," will be read by Mrs. Charles Hillier.

Mrs. Mary Cook, Pittsford, N. Y., also says:

"I was not very well for six years, paid many doctor bills, but never improved very much. Two years ago I was attacked with la grippe, which left me with a severe liver trouble. I gave up hope of ever recovering. Peruna cured me. I feel young again, and am gaining in flesh, as I was very emaciated. My own children are surprised in the great change in me when they come to visit me. We have made our Peruna our household remedy."—Mrs. Mary Cook.

"Peruna I have used in my family with success. I can recommend it as an excellent family remedy, and very good for coughs, colds and catarrhal affections."—H. Henry Powers.

"Peruna I can recommend to all as a very good tonic, and particularly good as a remedy for catarrh."—John H. Gear. Senator Gear's home address is Burlington, Iowa.

Mr. O. Fisher, 1861 Lexington avenue, New York City, writes:

"I had catarrh and was troubled with a constant dropping from the back part of the nose into the throat, and a horrible breath. Also severe hoarseness and yellow discharge from the nose; but I haven't the slightest trouble now of those complaints, and I honestly and conscientiously state that I am cured of catarrh of the nose and throat."

"If there is anyway I can state it more positively I am only too glad to do so, and I am willing, very willing, to lend any aid in my power in helping you to induce sufferers to give Peruna a trial."

"My wife is also taking Peruna, and it is helping her wonderfully. She has improved considerably since taking Peruna. She feels fifty per cent better than she has in years, for all of which I am very thankful. He was extremely nervous, had systemic catarrh, and blood."—O. Fisher.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

DOCTOR, I CANNOT SLEEP

Do you go to bed to tumble and toss? To think until your brain grows weary? Do you in desperation get up and read or walk about until exhausted nature gives you an hour or two troubled restless sleep? I sleep that does not rest. Do you know that the remedy is at hand? Do you know that every day hundreds of just such cases are cured by Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills? A medicine that does not quiet the nerves and give sleep by the opiate plan, but by the common sense system of nourishing the nerves, of quieting and steadying them through its magnificent tonic and strength-giving powers—the only rational, sensible way.

East Church Street.

Mrs. J. Brennan of No. 70 East Church street, Newark, Ohio, says: "One of the family was fearfully nervous, was weak and could not sleep—a nerve tonic was badly needed and we used a box of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills we got at C. T. Bricker's City Drug Store and they acted finely, steadied the nerves, gave restful, natural sleep and general strength. We prize the medicine highly."

AN NERVE TONIC NEVER EQUALED

THIS SHAPED BOX—NO OTHER.

Locust Street.

Mrs. L. Devine of No. 152 Locust street, Newark, Ohio, says: "I was greatly troubled with nervousness—could not sleep well and was generally run down. I was advised to take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and got a box at Bricker's City Drug Store and found them an excellent medicine and I can recommend them to others as safe and sure."

Beware of imitations—Signature and portrait of Dr. A. W. Chase on each box of the genuine. For sale by dealers, 50c. a box, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., 257 Washington street, Buffalo, N. Y.

FATHER

Whom She Had Never Seen, Found by a Bavarian Girl After Years of Search.

New York, Dec. 27.—Her 20 years' search for her father at an end, Katrina Hattmansburger left to join Philip Hattmansburger of No. 645 West Harrison street, Chicago, convinced that he is her long lost parent. Mr. Hattmansburger is as sure as Katrina that there is no mistake, and he is waiting eagerly to welcome his daughter.

The girl came to New York last July from Bavaria, where she was born. Before her birth her father came to America, leaving his family in the old country. Hattmansburger sent for his family after he began to prosper here, but his wife came alone, leaving her daughter with her grandmother. Mrs. Hattmansburger died, and father and daughter never saw each other.

The girl grew up in Bavaria and last July came to America, determined to seek her father. She inserted advertisements in the German and Bavarian newspapers in all the principal cities, and finally received an answer from Philip Hattmansburger in Chicago.

His letters convinced his daughter that he was the missing man. Katrina determined to wait no longer and started for Chicago. She will reach there today and there will be a Christmas and New Year reunion in the West Harrison street home.

PISTOL DUEL

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 27.—Third and Jefferson streets in the central part of the city was the scene of a pistol duel today in which one man was mortally and two others seriously wounded. Ed Garrity and Arthur and Chance Schumaker, all painters. Garrity was working in a shop and the two Schumakers called to see him. It seems that Schumaker charged Garrity with being too attentive to Arthur Schumaker's wife, and after heated words, Garrity pulled his pistol and began firing. Arthur Schumaker was shot and will die while his brother, Chance, sustained a serious wound. Garrity was also shot, but escaped and has not been arrested.

CHILDREN

ENJOYED FEAST SERVED BY THE KING'S DAUGHTERS

Nearly Two Hundred Little Folks Took Dinner on Saturday at the Trinity Parish House.

This morning the various committees from the "Sunshine," "Whatsoever" and "Brightening" circles of the King's Daughters, were at the Parish House of Trinity Episcopal church preparing the tables for the entertainment of the poor children with a Christmas dinner for which preparations have been going on for several weeks.

The dinner was prepared by Miss Annie White, and assistants, under the supervision of Mrs. W. D. Fulton, while members of the three circles bountifully served the little folks.

Could all who contributed to the dinner have seen the bright eyed children as they sat around the tables and heard the exclamations of joyous satisfaction, as each ate to his or her capacity, they would have been more than repaid, as were the noble women for their time and trouble.

Friday afternoon 194 cards of invitation were sent out to children whose home life, and conditions had been previously investigated, but over 200 were fed.

The dinner was a great success, and all who in any way assisted in its preparation or service, may be assured that their efforts were appreciated by the King's Daughters, and they, in turn, may be confident that their kind act, besides bringing its own reward, in the restful consciousness of having done a beautiful service in His Name, was gratefully acknowledged by the little folks and their parents.

NEW STORY OF CANNON

How the Tables Were Turned on "Uncle Joe."

VICTIM OF A QUICK WITTED CLERK

Two Newspaper Men Smoked Costly Cigars at Congressman's Expense When He Called For "Two Fors." Candidate For Speaker Had but a Nickel and Was Forced to Borrow Twenty Cents to Pay For the Treat.

Since the withdrawal of all the candidates in the field against Congressman Joe Cannon of Illinois for the speakership of the house of representatives, assuring the election of the "old man," as he is affectionately styled by his political associates, his friends have been busy telling yarns illustrating the idiosyncrasies of the next speaker and predicting that there will "be something doing" when he takes up the speaker's gavel.

One of the best stories told of Cannon, a hitherto unpublished one, was related the other night to a St. Louis Republic reporter by a well known newspaper man in Washington.

"It was in the latter part of 1900, about the month of September, I think," said he reminisciently, "that Mr. George C. Hensch, now local manager of the Associated Press at St. Louis, drifted into the Grand Pacific hotel, at Chicago, one morning during one of the monthly political powwows which were held at that hostelry. He ran across Hiram D. Fargo, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Evening Post, and the two newspaper men spent an hour chatting with the politicians gathered in the lobby.

"They had not been there long before they found Congressman Cannon, Hopkins and Lorimer engaged in a quiet conversation in a nook apart from the crowd. Fargo and Hensch seized the opportunity to quiz Cannon on current political topics, but he was as uncommunicative as usual, and after a few minutes the little group moved across the room with Congressman Lorimer, who was preparing to depart.

"Now, boys," said Cannon, "there's nothing more to tell you. I've said all I'm going to say today."

"This, of course, was a direct invitation to the two newspaper men to make their adieus, but they were not quick to accept it. Their little stroll brought them to the cigar stand. Lorimer said goodby and went out. Then Congressman Cannon, remarking that he believed he would have a smoke, turned to Hopkins, who he well knew did not smoke, and invited him to have a cigar. Hopkins, of course, declined.

"Then give me a good cigar," said the old man.

"What kind?" inquired the clerk.

"Well, I don't care, just so it's a good ten center," replied the congressman as he laid a ten cent piece on the counter.

He bit off the end of his cigar, lighted it and took a few puffs in a reflective manner. Then he turned to my friends and said, as if it had occurred to him quite suddenly that they might desire to smoke:

"Well, I won't be hogish about this matter. I'll give you fellows a smoke, anyway. Clerk, give these fellows a good cigar."

"By this time he presumed that he had aroused their expectations to the highest pitch. Then he added, with just the suggestion of a smile, which showed the keen delight he was taking in his little vengeance upon them for pressing him for news:

"Two fors will do for them. That's good enough for newspaper men."

"Probably his satisfaction would have been complete, for they were too astonished and chagrined to say anything, but for the fact that the clerk was more quick witted than they and, besides, was 'dead next' to the old man.

While that grim smile still twitched the corners of Cannon's mouth the clerk dived into a box of his best two for a quarter and, giving the newspaper men the wink, passed the cigars over the counter to them. They lost no time in biting off the ends of them and beginning to smoke them. Cannon threw out a nickel on the counter in a most ostentatious manner, as if to heighten the joke. But the clerk, assuming an air of conciliation, said:

"Twenty cents more, please?"

"Hench told me that they had their revenge right then, for he never saw such a look of astonishment as Cannon's face wore.

"Twenty cents?" he almost shouted, with such an accent on the word 'twenty' as to convulse us with laughter. 'Why, I told you to give those fellows two fors. I'm smoking a ten center myself, but two fors are good enough for them.'

"I gave them two fors, sir," replied the clerk in his blandest manner, 'but I thought you meant two for a quarter, of course.'

"The joke was on the congressman already, but they did not realize for a moment how good it was. Cannon began to fumble first in one pocket and then in another for change. Finally he took out his wallet and peered into it in hopeful fashion. He was flat broke. The newspaper men saw his predicament and offered to pay for the cigars. He declined with a brusqueness that almost made them regret the whole affair. Then, turning to Congressman Hopkins, he said:

"Hopkins, have you got any money?"

"Hopkins replied that he had, and Cannon blurted out his appeal.

"Well, lend me 20 cents to pay for these fine cigars these newspaper men are smoking. Boys, he added to them, 'it's no me. Be as easy on me as you can.'"

INSANE MAN

WORKED AS A BARKEEPER FOR THOS. FOSTER

During the Day and Returned to the Lunatic Asylum Each Evening After Work.

New York, Dec. 27.—That a man does not have to be sane to be a good bartender has been proved by John Martin, who mixed cocktails and drew beer from the wood in daytime and then went back to his cage in an asylum at night.

Martin worked for Thomas Foster, keeper of a roadhouse ear Poughkeepsie. The Hudson River State Hospital for the Insane is a mile away, and Martin, a parole patient, meandered along one day and asked for work. Foster started him in grinding apples for cider, but this was irksome, so he worked his way up until he became bar tender. Every morning Martin came to work on time, and at night folded up his apron and presumably went home. Now it has been found that the home to which the bar tender went was the asylum.

WRONG MAN

LYNCHED BY THE KANSAS MOB CHRISTMAS DAY.

Joe Godley is Believed to be the Man That the Pittsburg Mob Intended to Hang.

Pittsburg, Kan., Dec. 27.—Investigation tends to show that Joe Godley, a brother of Montgomery Godley, who was lynched by a mob here Christmas day for killing Policeman Hunkle, is the man the mob intended to hang. It seems that Joe Godley escaped during the lynching. It is now thought he fired the shot which killed the policeman and that the man who was lynched was innocent. The mother of the Godley boys is said to have asked a physician here to treat Joe for a gunshot wound in the neck. She would not tell the whereabouts of her son and the doctor refused to go with her. The officer's revolver with which he was killed has not been found and it is believed that the man who did the killing has the pistol in his possession.

FROST

In Florida and Three Feet Of Snow In Texas.

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 27.—Last night was the coldest of the season, the temperature reaching 24 above here and 30 at Tampa. There was a killing frost at Tampa and it is feared that Young orange trees are killed or badly hurt, and the previous warm weather had kept the sap in the upper limbs. There is considerable fruit yet in the groves and in some sections this may be harmed considerably.

Fort Worth, Texas, Dec. 27.—A blizzard is raging in the Texas Pan Handle and reports from various places state that there is three feet of snow on the level.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Stanton, Miss Etta and Wilbur Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cummings, Miss Hazel and Walter Cummings. The out of town guests were Miss Ethel King of Cincinnati, and Miss Beatrice and Edward Hildebrandt of Columbus.

MR. MOUSE'S GRAND IDEA

Mr. Mouse: "Hurrah! Who'd have a noisy, dirty, evil smelling motor car when one can get an equipage like this? No noise, no smell, no oil or forage to buy, and we can go quite five yards with one winding. I tell you, it's a grand idea!"

HOW THE INDIANS GOT FIRE

One Method Was to Rub a Stick Upon a Piece of Sandstone.

The Indian boy was never whipped for playing with matches. The reason was simply that the Indians never used matches. If they had, it would be safe to say that young Indians would have been into them.

It was something of a task for an Indian to kindle a fire. After he had been out hunting and had been wet through his blankets by the rain, he wasn't able to come home and touch a match to the gas logs or shake the furnace down. If there were a few sparks smoldering on his hearth of crude stones in the center of his wigwam, he could blow it into a blaze easily enough, but if the embers had gone out he had a task before him.

When workmen were making the excavation for the capitol building at Albany, N. Y., one of them unearthed a queer looking stone which shows one way how the poor Indian got his fire. It is of sandstone, about two inches wide and two and a half inches in length, with a hole through at one end and a bowl shaped hollow at the other. Through the hole the Indian used to put a thong to hang it around his neck so that he would have his "matchbox" with him whenever he needed it.

Should he then come home wet and find that his squaw had let the fire go out he would give her a good beating, and when warmed with his exercise he would take his firestone from his neck and place it between his knees. He would then take a stick between his palms, press one end of it into the hollow bowl of the stone and then begin sliding his hands back and forth. The friction of the wood on the sandstone soon caused enough heat to make the stick glow, and after a few strong puffs from the Indian's mouth the glow would blaze into a flame. Any boy can find out if this was a simple thing to do by trying it himself.

The stone which was dug up at Albany shows how many centuries the Indians used to prowl through our forests before Columbus came, in 1492. It is believed that it was used in the stone age, or 100,000 or more years ago.—New York Tribune.

The Oldest Cannon.

Several hundred years before the science of explosives reached western civilization at all it was thoroughly understood among the Chinese. It is said that cannon were in general use by the armies of the Celestial Kingdom over 3,000 years ago. The great wall, begun under the Emperor Tobias about 780 B. C., and finished nearly 150 years later, shut China away from communication with the world and hid its wonderful progress from the rest of mankind.

Of course the cannon used in China at that time were very different from those now in use either there or in Europe. The general principles were the same. The idea was not original with Europeans, as they supposed it was when cannon first appeared among them. There has recently been found in China a cannon which, according to most authentic records, is more than 2,000 years old. Before it was brought to this country it was mounted on the solid masonry of the Chinese wall and has probably been in use during all the years of the Christian era. This curious old piece of artillery has lately been purchased by the city of Philadelphia and is now on exhibition in Fairmount park in that city.

A Very Clever Terrier.

Captain was a big dog and a capital ward, but we always liked him to be muzzled at night, lest he should do any harm. So before letting him loose in the evening I always fastened on his muzzle myself, and Fax, the terrier, generally came with me and seemed much interested in the performance. Several mornings Captain was found with his muzzle off and only hanging round his neck by a strap.

One night after I had let the big dog loose I happened to go out on the lawn. It was bright moonlight, and there I saw Fax working away at Captain's muzzle. In a very short time he had loosened the straps, and the two were scampering about in delight. Fax had studied the method of putting on a muzzle so successfully that he had learned how to take one off.

Had One Too.

My little brother, aged five, was watching a colored man who was working for us.

"Have you a wife?" he asked.

"Yes," answered the man. "Have you?"

"Yes," he answered.

"Where is she?" asked the man, much amused.

"Out there in the kitchen," said the boy, pointing to his mother.—Brooklyn Eagle.

TWO SECRETS.

Eben Hid His From His Wife, and She Cherished Her Own.

"How's business, Eben?"

The old man was washing at the sink after his day's work.

"Fine, Marthy, fine."

"Does the store look just the same, with the red geranium in the window? Land, how I'd like to see it with the sun shining in! How does it look, Eben?"

Eben did not answer for a moment. When he did, his voice shook a bit.

"The store's never been the same since you left, Marthy."

A faint little flush came into Marthy's withered cheek. Is a wife ever too old to be moved by her husband's flattery? For years Eben and Martha had kept a tiny notion store; then Martha fell sick and was taken to the hospital. That was months ago. She was out now, but she would never be strong again—never be partner in their happy little trade again.

"I can't get over a haauking for a sight of the store," thought Martha one forenoon. "If I take it real careful, I can get down there. 'Tisn't so far. Eben 'll scold, but he'll be tickled most to death."

It took a long time for her to drag herself downtown, but at last she stood at the head of the little street where the store was. All of a sudden she stopped. Ahead, on the pavement, stood Eben. A tray hung from his neck, on which were arranged a few cards of collar studs, some papers of pins and shoelaces. Two or three hold-ers were in his shaking old hand, and as he stood he called his wares.

Martha clutched at the wall of the building. She looked over the way at the little store. Its windows were filled with fruit, and an Italian name fluttered on the awning. Then Martha understood. The store had gone to pay her expenses. She turned and hurried away as fast as her trembling limbs would take her.

"It will hurt him so to have me find out," she thought, and the tears trickled down her face.

"He's kept a secret from me, and I'll keep one from him," she said to herself. "He shan't know that I know."

That night when Eben came in, chilled and weary, Martha asked cheerfully the old question:

"How's business?"

"Better 'n ever, Marthy," answered Eben.—Youth's Companion.

THE BULLFIGHTER.

Picturesque, Self Conscious and the Popular Hero of Spain.

You could never mistake a bullfighter for a man of any other calling. He enforces upon himself a street costume the details of which are as immutable as those of a soldier's uniform. His hair must be brushed forward over his ears, he must be smooth shaven, he must wear a tiny pigtail, his jacket may not come below his waist line, his shirt is deeply fluted, and in its front he wears as magnificent a diamond as his earnings can supply. When he walks the streets on his high French heels, glancing self consciously from beneath his flat brimmed sombrero, he is followed on every side by pointed fingers.

To sit with him at a cafe table is a distinction, and the youngest of Madrid's golden youth flush with pleasure when in public places he nods to them. At the fashionable hour in the Prado they give him the seat of honor in the automobile. It is a survival of the relations of the "patron" and the gladiator. And in return for this social recognition, when Sunday comes, the matadore before he kills the bull bows to the box in which his rich patron sits and throws him his three cornered hat and by so doing fills with envy the hearts of 15,000 men.

What the effect his fame, his silken calves and his cloth of gold have upon the women of Spain has been sung by generations of poets, playwrights and novelists of his own country.—Richard Harding Davis in Scribner's.

The Royal "We."

There has been a tendency of late years on the part of royal personages to discontinue the use of we and substitute I. Before the reign of Richard I. "I" (Ego) was always used. Richard being the first sovereign in Europe to use the royal "we" (Nos). What gave rise to the change is a moot point. Richard I. was the first king to seal with a seal of arms which bore two lions, and it has been suggested that the lions were typical of the royal "we" and occasioned its use.—London Chronicle.

The SPORTING WORLD

Redfern's Bright Future.

Jockey Arthur Redfern has been a popular topic among horsemen ever since the announcement that he is to ride for W. C. Whitney next season. The agile youngster's contract calls for $15,000, and it must be admitted that, while his services are worth that sum, he is very lucky to be made so fine an offer. Redfern will receive $20,000 in 1904 if he consents to renew the contract.

The $15,000 is a retaining fee for first call on his services. In addition he will receive the usual riding fees of $25 for winning and $10 for losing.

JOCKEY ARTHUR REDFERN

mounts. This sum will net $5,000. Second call on his services will be as much, while outside mounts will figure up about $15,000—$40,000 in all.

His fees from horse owners who secure him to ride when not regularly engaged by his stable are very large. Take, for instance, the amount he earned at Brighton Beach, N. Y., last summer. He made $3,000. Most of the owners pay him an increase over the regulation fee. In most instances he receives from $50 to $200 for winning mounts.

The Latest Auto Record.

Now the automobile has traveled a mile in forty-six seconds. Henri Fournier's great performance in Paris recently, when he reduced the world's best mark by a full second to forty-seven and two-fifths seconds, was considered a wonderful performance and one it was thought would stand for years. But on the same road that Fournier made his great ride M. Angier has created new figures, driving his machine a mile one and two-fifths seconds faster.

It might be said that the conditions of the M. Angier's trial were more favorable than those of Fournier. The day was bright and the roads in fine condition. Fournier, it is said, will now try to beat the latest record, and there are those who believe that he will succeed in placing a new mark.

M. Angier is said to be a pseudonym used to cover the identity of a wealthy Parisian merchant. The automobile he used is of the same make and size as the one used by Henri Fournier when the latter made his record.

Concerning Kid Carter.

How quickly a glove can wipe off the bright varnish that blazons the front of a fighter. Kid Carter had a seat, center, row A, in the pugilistic arena a little while ago. Tommy Ryan and Jack Root sang him a lullaby that sounded very much like "Go Way Back and Sit Down."

And poor Carter has found himself out of the running. And there you are, or, rather, he is.

Chicago gave up the Olympian games to the Louisiana Purchase exposition, to be held in 1904, as the result of a conference of the executive committee. The games are to be carried out according to the original Chicago plan.

VERBAL ALIASES.

WORDS THAT GET TOO FAMILIAR TO SUIT SOME TASTES.

The Scientific Fad of Clothing Old Things in New Terms—Some Words the Meanings of Which Are Commonly Misunderstood.

When the report was recently circulated that a prominent public man had lost his life through accidentally inhaling a quantity of carbon dioxide, the man in the street began at once inquiring what carbon dioxide was.

As a matter of fact, carbon dioxide is merely another name for carbonic acid gas, one of the products of combustion and a constituent of atmospheric air.

Carbonic acid gas is known by several different names, as, for instance, carbon dioxide, carbonic oxide and carbonic anhydride.

Consumption as a name for a terrible and widespread disease is known and understood by practically every man, woman and child in England. But the medical fraternity, ever on the lookout for something new in the way of professional nomenclature, elected some years back to call it phthisis, and then just when that unspelling word began to be known and recognized they evolved yet another—tuberculosis.

And as with consumption so with most other complaints. A quarter of a century ago even eminent physicians were content to speak of smallpox, of typhoid fever, of lockjaw. Today they are called variola, enteric and tetanus respectively.

A doctor when giving evidence before an ignorant east end jury the other day said that the immediate cause of death was "a violent and prolonged fit of combined epistaxis and stomatorrhagia." It would, one would think, have been far easier for him to have spoken of a bleeding at the nose and mouth, and he would at all events have had the satisfaction of making himself understood.

Most people now living can remember the time when bacteria were known generically as animalcules—a not very strictly scientific definition, perhaps, but one easily understandable, and conveying, moreover, a distinct idea to any one of ordinary education and intelligence.

For that very reason, doubtless, the title in question was voted out of date and old fashioned and the word "bacilli" was substituted. This means, literally, "little sticks," certainly a Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time. The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. Hayes, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman. The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. Hayes, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly it is said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

PORTER FOUND DEAD

Woman Passenger Thinking Burris Was Asleep Tried To Arouse Him Just as the B. & O. Train Was Entering Newark.

John Burris a colored Pullman porter, on B. & O. train No. 14, which arrived in Newark about 7 o'clock Saturday morning was found dead in a seat in his car when near Newark, by a woman passenger.

Burris was alive when the train left Mt. Vernon, for at this place he called one of his passengers. When near Newark a woman on the car went to him as he was sitting in a seat, and asked him to do something for her. She received no reply, and, thinking the man was asleep, shook him in an attempt to arouse him, but it was soon found that the poor fellow was dead. The body was taken from the train and placed in charge of baggage master Charles Long, and afterward removed to Dowers & Bradley's ambulance to their undertaking rooms, where it was viewed by Coroner Scott J. Evans and then prepared for burial.

The dead porter was a well built, good looking negro and until he was found dead, appeared to be in the best of health.

He was on the buffet car "Taudila," and ran from Chicago to Wheeling and it is understood his home was in the former city, and that he was a single man.

He was well known along the line as "Porter John," and was accommodating, polite and painstaking.
